Session Agenda

- Introduction and purpose of this project
- Arkansas's journey to providing equitable access
- Data analysis and predictions
- Stakeholder engagement in meaningful conversations to solve complex problems
- Conclusion, questions, and answers

AUGENBLICK,
PALAICH AND ASSOCIATES

Expected Outcomes

- Improved understanding of the role equitable access plays in improving teaching and learning for students from underserved backgrounds
- Increased awareness of effective strategies used in Arkansas to improve equity in access (i.e., Equity Labs and Educator Shortage Predictor Model, as well as other data sets made available to stakeholders)
- Increased knowledge of how to create data sets and tools to stimulate conversation, drive engagement, and ultimately recommend changes in policies and practices that improve equity in access
- Increased understanding of how such efforts support the underlying premises and purposes of Title I and ESSA

Project's Theory of Action

We believe if we share data in a meaningful way, then education stakeholders with various roles, backgrounds, and interests will engage in conversations that will propel strategic changes in practices and policies as they collaborate to solve a shared regional problem.

Introduction

- The Elementary and Secondary Education Act (ESEA) was signed into law in 1965 by President Lyndon Baines Johnson, who believed “full educational opportunity” should be “our first national goal.” From its inception, ESEA was a civil rights law.
- The Civil Rights Movement made this bill successful—it drove awareness on issues of inequality.

Introduction (cont'd)

- The Every Student Succeeds Act (ESSA) reauthorizes the 50-year-old ESEA, the nation's national education law and longstanding commitment to equal opportunity for all students.

Introduction (cont'd)

“This is the value of the teacher, who looks at a face and says there's something behind that and I want to reach that person, I want to influence that person, I want to encourage that person, I want to enrich, I want to call out that person who is behind that face, behind that color, behind that language, behind that tradition, behind that culture. I believe you can do it. I know what was done for me.”

Research

- A high teacher turnover rate has a negative impact on the quality of education in a school district.
- Inexperienced teachers and those teaching “out-of-field” are less prepared to meet the many challenges of teaching today’s increasingly diverse students.
- Poverty and minority students are more likely to attend schools where there are more inexperienced teachers, teachers teaching out-of-field and where greater turnover exists.
- Between 1987 and 2011, the minority student population increased by 88%, but the majority of teachers are still white.

AUGENBLICK,
PALAICH AND
ASSOCIATES

Reality of Today's Educator Workforce

- Greening and Graying of the workforce
- Declining enrollment in preparation programs
- High Attrition Rates
- Changing Demographics of Student Population versus Demographics of Educator Population
- Poverty and Minority students less likely to have access to the most effective teachers

AUGENBLICK,
PALAICH AND

Problem Statement

- In Arkansas, students who attend High Poverty and High Minority schools are less likely to have an experienced teacher who is fully licensed to teach in his/ her chosen field and more likely to experience instability in the teacher workforce due to greater rates of teacher turnover (Equitable Access to Excellent Educators, 2015).

The screenshot shows the homepage of MySchoolInfo.Arkansas.gov. At the top left is the ADE DATA CENTER logo. The top navigation bar includes links for Home, Newsroom, App Stats, Arkansas K-12 Profile, About Us, Search, and Directory. Below this is a secondary navigation bar with Search, Compare, Analyzer, FAQ, and Login (Optional). The main content area features a search interface with tabs for Schools and Districts. The search form includes fields for Name, City, District, Zip, County, Co-op, ARLEG District, and Congressional District, with a search button and an Advanced Filters option. To the right of the search form is an illustration of school buildings. Below the search form, the 'MY SCHOOL INFO' logo is displayed with the tagline 'SEARCH • COMPARE • INFORM'. A paragraph explains that the site allows the public to search and compare public schools and districts across the state. Another paragraph notes that the data is periodically updated. Below the text are three buttons: Arkansas State Information, District Statewide Reports, and School Statewide Reports. To the right of these buttons is a 'Pageviews' counter showing 330,689 with a small bar chart. On the right side of the page, a 'What's New?' section features a video titled 'How to Identify ACT Performance Trends for Your School' with a 'View on Youtube' button.

Addressing the Problem

- We have all this data: student demographic data, student course-taking data, educator demographic data, retention data, preparation program data. So what do we do with it to make a difference?
- Who needs to be part of the conversation?
- How do various stakeholders/constituencies make sense of the data and use it in meaningful ways?

Collaboration Processes

- Project management, including coordination of timelines (e.g., data collection cycles, reporting requirements, personnel decision points, program proposal deadlines, and legislative session)
- Communication and coordination between and among internal and external partners
- Data review, cleaning, organizing, analysis, and display
- Model creation and refinement
- Development of stakeholder engagement protocols and synthesis of feedback
- Review of national trends and emerging best practices and policies related to recruitment, preparation, placement, development, and retention

AUGENBLICK,

Equity Labs

- Regional convenings of districts, schools, and community leaders, including an emphasis on teacher leaders
- Replicable within the district-school-community to engage more stakeholders
- Include challenging conversations about inequities based on race, sex, poverty, language, and much more
- Structured around data examination, root cause exploration, and strategic solution identification

Resources and Processes

- Focus group facilitation tips
  - Use experienced facilitators.
  - Always plan for more discussion time than you think stakeholders will need. Evaluations often reflect a desire for more time to discuss the data with their colleagues and other stakeholders.
- Data lessons learned
  - Stakeholders will have more meaningful conversations about data that is “closer to home.”
  - Accessing data from live sources during discussion groups and focus groups is sometimes problematic. Always have a backup plan.

Outcomes and Outputs

- Increased SEA staff members' skills to determine and predict workforce needs
- Improved process for identifying and addressing critical shortage areas and informing preparation program design
- Improved accuracy of information used for awarding incentive funding, scholarships, and grants
- Increased stakeholder engagement in data analysis and policy recommendations
- Initial changes in policy and practice related to recruitment, preparation, development, retention, and extension of excellent educators
- Process for engaging multiple external stakeholders in conversations about data, inequitable policies, and improvable practices

AUGENBLICK,
PALAICH AND

Expected Outcomes and Outputs

- Fully developed Arkansas Educator Shortage Predictor Model to assist in the continuous refinement of strategies included in the Arkansas Equitable Access to Excellent Educators Plan and Every Student Succeeds Act Consolidated State Plan
- Enhanced conversations among stakeholders at the local level about current policies and practices leading to inequities and changes leading to greater equity
- Changes in practices and policies at the local level
- Improved learning experiences for all students, particularly those from traditionally underserved and disadvantaged backgrounds (expected long-term outcome)

AUGENBLICK,
PALAICH AND
ASSOCIATES

Potential Changes in Practices and Policies at the Local Level

- Each expected change will be based on the local needs, context, and resources for improvement.
- Examples include decisions such as:
  - Prioritization of staffing decisions at low performing, high poverty, high minority schools;
  - Career counseling for prospective teachers related to trends in the workforce where their skills could be maximized;
  - Increased collaboration time and teacher leadership opportunities to enhance school culture and induce retention of excellent educators; and
  - Development of community services office within the school to address needs under the influence of other sectors of the community.
